ðåùà: Translation fees

I checked around with a couple of well-regarded colleagues who work with long texts, telling them nothing other than a very high-level translation was required for a book to be published in English by a top publishing house.

On the assumption that the translated material must be fully edited and polished for use in a book manuscript, t he estimates for translating 20,000 words from Hebrew into Englishwere in the neighborhood of NIS 21 ,0 00 (based on a calculation of 28,000 words in the final English translation).
The final price will be based on the actual number of words in the English version.
The price does not include VAT.

If there are very tight deadlines involved, t hat couldalso affect the final price.

I hope this is helpful.

Best,
Margery
